16. EASTER STORY in ART

This image depicts Jesus and Mary Magdalene in a detached fresco, entitled Noli me tangere ("Do not touch me"), created by Franciabigio between 1520-1525. It is currently maintained by the Museo del Cenacolo di San Salvi, in Florence. Image online, courtesy Web Gallery of Art.

During the centuries since lesus lived, people have tried to comprehend the Easter story. Some of the world's greatest painters have created fine art depicting the passion of Christ as though it happened in their own time and within their own culture.

From the dress of bystanders and soldiers, to landscapes which were clearly not part of actual places and events, people have adapted the meaning of Easter to their own understanding.

And so it continues today.

NOTE:

AwesomeStories gratefully acknowledges the Web Gallery of Art for its masterful collection of digital images which we have used in all the chapters of this story.

We encourage visits to the Gallery of Art's web site, where you can search for a specific work, or artist, and/or virtually tour highlights of the collections.
