*The surging mass of people
attempted to storm the lifeboats,
hardly anyone hearing the command:
"women and children first."*

Karl Hoffmann

Wilhelm Gustloff Survivor

The night was freezing cold as an estimated 10,582 people (perhaps more) were crammed into the Wilhelm Gustloff.

Most folks on the overcrowded ship, designed to carry 1,865 passengers, were German women and children. They thought they were escaping certain death at the hands of the approaching Soviet Army.
